

Point Loma Nazarene University		LO 1	LO 2	LO 3	LO 4	LO 5	LO 6	LO 7
POLITICAL SCIENCE MAJOR		Students will develop an appreciation of the field of politics.	Evaluate, design, and apply social science research with regard to political phenomena.	Understand and critically assess the processes, theories, and outcomes of political institutions and political behavior.	Demonstrate social scientific information literacy.	Develop and express ideas in written communication in an effective and scholarly manner.	Demonstrate oral communication abilities, particularly to convey complex ideas, recognize diverse viewpoints, and offer empirical evidence of an argument.	Construct and evaluate analytical, comprehensive arguments.
Course	Course Title
LOWER-DIVISION REQUIREMENTS
POL101	Introduction to Political Science	I				I		I
POL165	American Government	I				I
POL230	Introduction to International Relations			I				I
POL270	Scope and Methods of Political Science		I,D		I,D	I	I
UPPER-DIVISION CORE REQUIREMENTS
American Government
Four units from:
POL341	Campaigns and Elections in an Electronic Age	D		M			D
POL380	Congress and the Presidency	D		D		D		D
Global Politics
Four units from:
POL420	United States Foreign Policy			D	D
POL435	Global Governance		D	D			D
Comparative Government
POL370	Comparative Politics		M	D	M
Political Theory
POL321	Western Political Thought						D	M
Capitals Program

Point Loma Nazarene University		LO 1	LO 2	LO 3	LO 4	LO 5	LO 6	LO 7
POLITICAL SCIENCE MAJOR		Students will develop an appreciation of the field of politics.	Evaluate, design, and apply social science research with regard to political phenomena.	Understand and critically assess the processes, theories, and outcomes of political institutions and political behavior.	Demonstrate social scientific information literacy.	Develop and express ideas in written communication in an effective and scholarly manner.	Demonstrate oral communication abilities, particularly to convey complex ideas, recognize diverse viewpoints, and offer empirical evidence of an argument.	Construct and evaluate analytical, comprehensive arguments.
Course	Course Title
POL390	American Capitals Program	D
	OR
POL391	World Capitals Program	D
Internships
POL460	Internship in Political Science	M
ELECTIVES: 8 units from:
POL301	Transitions to Democracy	D		M	D			M
POL320	U.S. Constitution and Civil Liberties Law			D				D
POL325	American Political Thought		D
POL330	The Development of Feminist Thought					D		D
POL341	Campaigns and Elections in an Electronic Age	D		M			D
POL351	War and Peace Studies		D			D
POL360	Urban Politics	D			D		M
POL380	Congress and the Presidency	D		D		D
POL415	Women and Politics	D		D		M	M
POL420	United States Foreign Policy			D	D

Point Loma Nazarene University		LO 1	LO 2	LO 3	LO 4	LO 5	LO 6	LO 7
POLITICAL SCIENCE MAJOR		Students will develop an appreciation of the field of politics.	Evaluate, design, and apply social science research with regard to political phenomena.	Understand and critically assess the processes, theories, and outcomes of political institutions and political behavior.	Demonstrate social scientific information literacy.	Develop and express ideas in written communication in an effective and scholarly manner.	Demonstrate oral communication abilities, particularly to convey complex ideas, recognize diverse viewpoints, and offer empirical evidence of an argument.	Construct and evaluate analytical, comprehensive arguments.
Course	Course Title
POL435	Global Governance		D	D			M
POL437	International Economics			D
POL438	International Law						D	D
POL441	Issues in Public Policy	D		M	D		M
POL442	Contemporary Issues in World Politics							D
POL444	Contemporary Political Ideologies	D		D
POL450	Issues of Global Human Rights			D	D
POL455	Protest and Social Movements in World Politics		D	D		M		