

Department of History and Political Science

PROGRAM: HISTORY

Students who complete the program will be able to:

1. Conduct historical research, including analyzing primary and secondary sources, using appropriate citation methods, and construct historical arguments.
2. Identify and analyze change over time in various regions of the world.
3. Critically evaluate systems around the world in their historical context.

PROGRAM: INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

Students who complete the program in International Studies will be able to:

1. Recognize and appreciate the historical, political, social, cultural, and economic dimensions of international processes and issues.
2. Critically analyze issues of global significance using knowledge and techniques from more than one academic discipline (e.g. political science, history, geography, economics, sociology, literature, etc.).
3. Make informed, reasoned, and ethical judgments in matters relating to issues of international public action.
4. Demonstrate a sense of global awareness, by critically evaluating his or her own culture and society in a global and comparative context.

PROGRAM: POLITICAL SCIENCE

Students who complete the program in Political Science will be able to:

1. Develop an appreciation of the field of politics.
2. Conduct, evaluate, and apply social science research with respect to political phenomena.
3. Understand the processes, theories, and outcomes of political institutions and political behavior.

PROGRAM: SOCIAL SCIENCE

Students who complete the program in Social Science will be able to:

1. Conduct historical research, including analyzing primary and secondary sources, using appropriate citation methods, and construct historical arguments.
2. Identify and analyze change over time in various regions of the world.
3. Critically evaluate systems around the world in their historical context.