Catalog Entry: The nature and structure of language (universals) via the science of linguistics, emphasizing the core areas of phonology, morphology, syntax, and semantics. Also introducing sociolinguistics, language acquisition and development, historical comparative methods, and neurolinguistics.

Course Description: We will learn about language. We will have fun. Sometimes we will look and feel crazy. We will stare at each other and sound out a word a million times (“dogs, dogs, dogs, dogs, dogs, dogs...”) until we can forget the spelling and hear the actual sounds we’re making. We will consider language through scientific observation and philosophical questioning. This class will serve as a solid foundation for language teachers and for those who will go on for further study in linguistics, and it will also make all of us more thoughtful and effective language users in our lives beyond the classroom.

This class will require you to do a large amount of reading, studying, memorizing, researching, and writing. It will be rigorous, and it will also be rewarding. Hard work and fun don’t have to be mutually exclusive.

Required Materials

Language Files, Ohio State UP, 12th ed. (ISBN: 9780814252703)

Additional readings and resources will be posted on Canvas.

The obvious things: pen/pencil, loose-leaf paper, folder for storage, etc.

Digital Statement

Neuroscience confirms that students process and retain information better and are less easily distracted when handwriting notes than with using a screen. However, if students have a demonstrable need to take notes digitally, they may make special arrangements with the instructor.

Diversity Statement: Point Loma Nazarene University is committed to diversity in the classroom, in its publications and in its various organizations and components. Faculty and staff recognize that the diverse backgrounds and perspectives of their colleagues and students are best served through respect toward gender, disability, age, socioeconomic status, ethnicity, race, culture and other personal characteristics. In addition, the Department of Literature, Journalism, Writing, and Languages is committed to taking a leadership position that calls for promoting a commitment to diversity in and out of the classroom and in the practices of writing, journalism, and the study of literature and languages.

Grading Scale & Definitions:

|------------|-----------|-------------|
| A: 93-100% | B-: 80-82 | D+: 67-69 |
| A-: 90-92 | C+: 77-79 | D: 63-66 |

B = Good work that exceeds the minimum requirements of the assignment; no major problems with logic, structure, and organization; very few grammar and punctuation errors.

C = Average work that meets the minimum requirements of the assignment; may have minor problems with logic, structure, and organization; may have some grammar and punctuation errors.

D = Poor work that does not fully meet the minimum requirements of the assignment; may have some problems with logic, structure, and organization; grammar and punctuation errors may hinder meaning.

F = Poor work that does not fulfill the assignment; may have serious problems with logic, structure, and organization; grammar and punctuation errors may obscure meaning.

Attendance & Participation: Because discussion will be an important part of our class, your regular attendance and participation are required for you to be successful. Your first two absences will not count against your grade, but use them wisely. For each additional absence, your total grade will be lowered by 5%; if you miss class more than 4 times (over 2 weeks), you will automatically fail this course. Coming to class unprepared, staring at a screen, or being disruptive in class will also count as an absence. If you already know that you'll be missing many classes due to some pre-existing schedule conflict, you should not take this course at this time. Also, since arriving late to class is distracting to your classmates (and to me), you are expected to arrive on time. Two late arrivals will count as one absence. Truly perfect attendance (with no tardies or absences of any kind—you were literally present for all of every class meeting) will earn you 1% of extra credit at the end of the semester.

Readings: Readings are due on the date they're listed in the course outline. Always bring your copy of the assigned reading to class with you for use in discussion. Read actively and make notes directly on the text and/or on the side.

Quizzes: On days when reading assignments are due, I may give brief quizzes at the very beginning of class. Some will be scheduled; some may be surprises. They will often require short answers to a few questions, but they might occasionally require a longer answer to one question (in the form of a short essay). This will motivate you to do the assigned reading, and it is extra incentive to get to class on time. These quizzes cannot be made up later. You should keep all quizzes in a notebook or a folder, along with all of your class notes and other assignments. Save everything throughout the semester so that you can look back on previous work and build upon it. This will also allow you to keep track of your grade in the class and to ensure that my final calculations are accurate.

Practice: For each chapter, you will complete selected practice questions from the textbook. I will assign these as we go along, announcing them during the class period before they are due. These should be completed to the best of your ability by the beginning of class on the day they are due. Some of these problems will require that you work them out in pencil and by hand, but type if you can. I will select students at random to share answers as we go over these in class, and we will work through especially tough problems together in class. Completion, effort, and class participation will count for something; more important than simply having the right answer is learning how to think and work through the process to get to the answer.

Mini-Presentation: We will often open our class meetings with mini-presentations. On your assigned day, please come to class prepared to share something interesting and language related. This could be something that you've observed and analyzed yourself (such as a roommate's interesting speech pattern from a regional dialect or a song lyric), or it could be something that you found elsewhere (such as an NPR article about language use). It might require a little research. This presentation need not be formal, but it should be concise (under 5 minutes), well-prepared, and engaging. Use of media, handouts, or other visual/auditory aides is encouraged.

Nerdy Language Cartoon: Look at the beginning of each chapter in our text book. Go ahead. I'll wait... See how each chapter uses a nerdy language cartoon to introduce the topic of that chapter? I would like for you to make one of your own. It's okay if your platypus looks more like a duck. I don't have great drawing skill either. However, you should take the time to think of something clever and to present it as well as you can (a.k.a. don't scribble something down five minutes before it's due). Your final draft may be digitally designed and printed or neatly hand drawn. Along with your cartoon, turn in a 1-page artist's statement explaining what you did and why. Your cartoon shouldn't depend on this statement; this is just your chance to show me that you did thoughtful work. The point of this assignment overall is to allow you to dissect some feature of language in a fun, playful way.

Personal Reflection Essay (Blog): Early in the semester, we will read a published personal reflection on a topic of language and faith. Using this as a model, you will create your own personal reflection essay and post it to our "Discussions" page on Canvas. This will serve as a jumping off place for our class as we discuss how language and faith intersect. We will use the discussion function on Canvas to post these essays and to discuss the issues they raise by interacting with each other's comments. You will receive more detailed instructions for this assignment in class.

Research Paper: Early in the semester, you will choose a topic that you're curious about and form a research question to guide you in your quest for information. I will be available to help you along the way, but this paper will be mostly self-motivated. Make sure you choose something you're truly curious about so that the research process will be interesting and enjoyable for you. You will receive more detailed instructions for this assignment in class.

Midterm & Final Exams: You will take a midterm exam and a final exam to demonstrate your knowledge of important concepts covered in our class. If you read closely and take notes in class regularly, you should have no problem passing. If you do not take both of these exams, you will automatically fail the course.

Due Dates: Dates when assignments are due are listed on the attached course outline; all written assignments are due at the beginning of class. I highly encourage you to visit with me one-on-one during office hours to run topics, thesis statements, or drafts by me. Once an assignment receives a grade, there will be no further opportunities to revise for a new grade. Late work is not acceptable. If unusual circumstances will keep you from completing an assignment on time, please make arrangements with me for an extension BEFORE the due date (or if you wake up sick, please email me ASAP with your assignment so it will not be counted late). Special arrangements can only be made in advance, not after a due date, except in the case of a real emergency. Please complete all readings on time as well. All coursework must be completed by the end of our final exam period.

Paper Format: All papers must be typed, double-spaced, in 12-point Times New Roman font, with one-inch margins, and in MLA format. See the MLA Format handout on Canvas for specific formatting guidance. Electronic submissions will not be accepted, except when approved by me or as required by the assignment.

Student-Directed Conferences: During the semester, you will meet with me in my office to discuss your writing, reading, or whatever else you'd like. The dates for these conferences are on the course outline. Feel free to meet with me more often than this!

Extra Credit: You may earn extra points in two ways (in addition to perfect attendance):

1. Visit the Tutorial Center to get extra feedback on a paper or to get extra instruction on grammar and punctuation. Turn in a brief write-up explaining what you worked on, with whom, when, and how it has affected your writing. Turn this in with your assignment for a 2% grade boost on that assignment.
2. Language-related events go on frequently at PLNU and in our larger San Diego community. Attend an author lecture, reading, or workshop and write a 1-2 page critical reflection over what was said and how it connects with what you're learning about the nature and use of language. Due within one week of the event. This will earn you a 1% grade boost in the class (up to 2 times).

Canvas: A copy of this syllabus and assignments for our course are online at <https://canvas.pointloma.edu>. You can access these course materials through the portal using your PLNU username and password.

PLNU Email: Your PLNU email account should be checked daily. This is the way that I will most frequently communicate with you outside of class, and it's also the way the university distributes important information.

Inclusive Language Statement: Because language is powerful and shapes the way we think, all public language used in this course, including written and spoken discourse, will be inclusive. This standard is outlined by all major academic style guides, including MLA, APA, and Chicago, and is the norm in university-level work. See "Appropriate Language" at The Purdue OWL and CSU's Diversity Style Guide.

Public Discourse: Much of the work we will do in this class is cooperative. You should think of all your writing and speaking for and in class as public, not private, discourse. By continuing in this class, you acknowledge that your work will be viewed by others in the class.

This syllabus is a contract. If you continue in this course, then you agree to comply with the class policies as stated here.

Important Statements & Policies

PLNU Mission Statement

Point Loma Nazarene University exists to provide higher education in a vital Christian community where minds are engaged and challenged, character is modeled and formed, and service becomes an expression of faith. Being of Wesleyan heritage, we aspire to be a learning community where grace is foundational, truth is pursued, and holiness is a way of life.

LJWL Department Mission Statement: Welcome to the Department of Literature, Journalism, Writing, and Languages. Embodying the core values of a Christian liberal arts education in the Wesleyan theological tradition, and focusing on the power of language and story to shape us and our world, the LJWL Department and programs will provide students with knowledge, skills, and experiences to equip them to understand, interpret, analyze, evaluate, and create texts as linguistic and/or artistic expressions of diverse human experiences. We value reading, writing, researching, speaking, and discussing as profound means of participating in the redemptive work of God in all of creation. The following document will provide you with the information sources and information guidelines to University and Departmental policies that apply to all courses taken in this Department.

Final Examination Policy

Successful completion of this class requires taking the final examination on its scheduled day. The final examination schedule is posted on the Class Schedules site. No requests for early examinations or alternative days will be approved.

PLNU Copyright Policy

Point Loma Nazarene University, as a non-profit educational institution, is entitled by law to use materials protected by the US Copyright Act for classroom education. Any use of those materials outside the class may violate the law.

PLNU Academic Honesty Policy

Students should demonstrate academic honesty by doing original work and by giving appropriate credit to the ideas of others. Academic dishonesty is the act of presenting information, ideas, and/or concepts as one's own when in reality they are the results of another person's creativity and effort. A faculty member who believes a situation involving academic dishonesty has been detected may assign a failing grade for that assignment or examination, or, depending on the seriousness of the offense, for the course. Faculty should follow and students may appeal using the procedure in the university Catalog. See Academic Policies for definitions of kinds of academic dishonesty and for further policy information.

Note: For our class's purposes, writing is collaborative, and writers share and borrow from each other all the time. There are ways to do this that are acceptable (such as taking suggestions from professors and peers), but there are also ways to use other people's ideas or words in a way that is considered plagiarism (such as passing off somebody else's work as your own). We will discuss this further in class.

PLNU Academic Accommodations Policy

While all students are expected to meet the minimum standards for completion of this course as established by the instructor, students with disabilities may require academic adjustments, modifications or auxiliary aids/services. At Point Loma Nazarene University (PLNU), these students are requested to register with the Disability Resource Center (DRC), located in the Bond Academic Center. (DRC@pointloma.edu or 619-849-2486). The DRC's policies and procedures for assisting such students in the development of an appropriate academic adjustment plan (AP) allows PLNU to comply with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act. Section 504 (a) prohibits discrimination against students with special needs and guarantees all qualified students equal access to and benefits of PLNU programs and activities. After the student files the required documentation, the DRC, in conjunction with the student, will develop an AP to meet that student's specific learning needs. The DRC will thereafter email the student's AP to all faculty who teach courses in which the student is enrolled each semester. The AP must be implemented in all such courses.

If students do not wish to avail themselves of some or all of the elements of their AP in a particular course, it is the responsibility of those students to notify their professor in that course. PLNU highly recommends that DRC students speak with their professors during the first two weeks of each semester about the applicability of their AP in that particular course and/or if they do not desire to take advantage of some or all of the elements of their AP in that course.

PLNU Attendance and Participation Policy

Regular and punctual attendance at all classes is considered essential to optimum academic achievement. If the student is absent from more than 10 percent of class meetings, the faculty member can file a written report which may result in de-enrollment. If the absences exceed 20 percent, the student may be de-enrolled without notice until the university drop date or, after that date, receive the appropriate grade for their work and participation. See Academic Policies in the Undergraduate Academic Catalog.
